

“Enhancing Interprofessional
Collaboration and Learning for Strengthening Primary Health Care”

July 21-23, 2021

Faculty of Medicine, Public Health and Nursing

Universitas Gadjah Mada

Yogyakarta, Indonesia

TUFH THE NETWORK:
2021 TOWARD UNITY
FOR HEALTH

Supported by:

TUFH 2021 ABSTRACTS

Title	CHALLENGING CULTURE TRANSFORMATION WITHIN A FACULTY OF MEDICINE TOWARDS SOCIAL ACCOUNTABILITY THROUGH EXPLICIT STRATEGIES IN GLOBAL HEALTH TEAMS CAPACITY
Type	Oral Presentation Innovative Ways for Community Mobilization and Engagement of Stakeholders
1st Author	JACQUES E. GIRARD
Co-Authors	JACQUES E. GIRARD
Country	CANADA
Abstract N ^o	TUFH796
Content	Background: Starting in 2014, the first Vice-Dean for Social Accountability (VDRS) Office has been created by the Faculty of Medicine (FMED) to foster a 2015-2019 strategic plan putting an emphasis on Social Accountability (SA). A policy document on Global Health (GH) has been launched to be inclusive for inner city, indigenous and international health. A new GH division has been linked to the VDRS Office, in the realm of a mismatch between health sciences students profiles and the reference population in the FMED catchment area, coping with social inequities in health. Objectives: Evaluate SA progress tackling FMED culture, orientations and landmarks through GH. Methods: GH has facilitated implementation processes: a nucleus leadership for monitoring initiatives; a mixed board with academics, students and staff nurturing working groups on GH ethics, indigenous health, training and research for revisiting programs; a series of citizens' forums for giving a local voice to communities and finally international, indigenous and local partners for influencing FMED perspectives. Results: An ASPIRE recognition at AMEE was achieved in 2017 on the SA governance component, but some outputs are interesting to look at, namely guides, instruments and concept papers through international projects, indigenous sensitivity and a community clinic (SPOT) for underserved population. This allows to visualize the SA on a gradient scale to monitor further progress in the coming years at a crossroad. Conclusion: Focusing on GH addressing populations within a fragile socio-economic, cultural and political environment could empower a social accountable organization with a meaningful agenda.